Restoring Hearts for Couples: Building a True Connection

Who should attend? Couples who...

- Have recently experienced “shattered vows” and are longing to heal and cultivate genuine relational intimacy.
- Are feeling “stuck” in their process of restoring trust after experiencing sexual brokenness in their relationship
- Want to build a new level of intimacy in their relationship.

What will couples who attend gain? Couples will...

- Gain new insights about their relationship and practical ways to restore brokenness.
- Develop a roadmap to deeper, healthy intimacy.
- Learn new skills and develop new tools to help them relate in a more satisfying and collaborative manner.
- Leave with a greater level of hope for building trust and forming a genuine love for one another.

FEATURED PRESENTERS:

Drs. Earl and Sandy Wilson

Co-Directors, Tuff Stuff Ministries / www.tuffstuffministries.com

Earl and Sandy Wilson, married 55 years, offer both professional and personal experience in dealing with sexual addiction issues. Earl is an author and psychologist in private practice, specializing in treating men with patterns of compulsive sexual behaviors. Sandy is an author, speaker, and counselor, specializing in treating women who have experienced betrayal. She recently completed a video series, Lessons I've Learned Along the Way.

Dave and Meg Wilson

Hope After Betrayal Ministries / www.hopeafterbetrayal.com

Dave and Meg Wilson's shared mission to support and encourage other couples was born from the pain of betrayal. After 17 years of marriage, Dave disclosed his secret life of sexual addiction. Gradually, with supportive counseling, God not only healed their hearts, He turned their pain into encouragement for others. Dave and Meg have been married 31 years and have served as small group facilitators, speakers, and ministry leaders. Meg is the author of "Hope after Betrayal."
